ABSTRACT

Part 1 of this publication, entitled "New from UNESCO," briefly notes conventions and reports on UNESCO activities within member nations. Part 2, "Bibliographic Services Throughout the World," updates a handbook of the same title published by UNESCO in 1972. Arranged by country, it is further divided into up to six topics: (1) national institutions, (2) professional associations, (3) national bibliography, (4) current bibliographies on special subjects, (5) bibliography and index of periodicals, and (6) interlibrary cooperation. The update covers publications in the period 1970-72. Section 3, "International Information System on Research in Documentation" (ISORID), lists sponsored research projects and research papers in documentation. The final section lists international meetings and national publications of librarians, archivists, and information specialists in the following categories: (1) general information; (2) natural sciences; (3) social sciences, humanities, and culture; and (4) free flow of information and mass media. The International Copyright Information Centre was established at Unesco in 1971 in order to facilitate the access of developing countries to copyrighted works.

It started publishing a new Information bulletin in October 1973. The Bulletin is intended for publishers, authorities or individuals concerned with copyright and specialists in book development, as a means of exchanging ideas. It should enable them to associate themselves more closely with the efforts being made to alleviate the difficulties faced by developing countries wishing to reproduce, translate or use in some other way, works protected by copyright.

It contains the following chapters: the East African school of librarianship; organizational structure of the school; international and bilateral assistance towards the development of the school; Makerere's contribution; staff crises and solutions; premises for the school; the school's library; crystallization and development of academic programmes; related activities; further development of the school; main conclusions; summary of main recommendations.

Sudan - Documentation Centre of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, by T.S. Rajagopalan. Paris, Unesco, 1973. 45 p.

This report on the establishment of a Documentation Centre in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs arises from a Unesco Mission, carried out from June 1972 to March 1973. It contains five chapters. The first chapter is the introduction, outlining the objectives of the mission. It also provides background information to the mission and an account of the library and documentation situation in the Sudan, in so far as it relates to the mission. The second chapter is about the plan drawn up by the Unesco consultant for establishing the Documentation Centre and for developing the Library of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The third chapter deals with the work accomplished during the mission. The fourth chapter describes some of the activities, other than the mission, undertaken by the consultant in the Sudan. The final chapter describes salient features of the mission and enumerates recommendations towards fulfilling its objectives.

Une enquête sur l'enseignement de la statistique dans les pays en voie de développement/A survey of statistics teaching in developing countries/Encuesta sobre la enseñanza de la estadística en los países en vías de desarrollo. Paris, Unesco, 1973. 186 p.

Unesco and the Permanent Office of the International Statistical Institute (ISI) at the Hague recently undertook a joint survey of the teaching of statistics in developing countries. The resulting publication is intended as a guide to students from developing countries wishing to follow courses or pursue programmes leading to qualifications in statistics particularly designed for the needs of these countries. Another purpose is to provide an international directory of such courses and programmes which would be of use to all those involved in statistical education and training or with the employment of professional statisticians. The directory has been compiled by world region and by alphabetical order of country within that region. Each entry in the directory may contain a programme or courses at more than one level or in more than one specialization or field of emphasis within statistics. In order to assist the user of the directory, therefore, three indexes have been compiled classifying the reference numbers of courses and programmes as follows: (i) by world region and by academic level; (ii) by academic level, by broad field of special emphasis, and by region (with language indicated); (iii) by special emphasis (where stated) by region (with academic level indicated).

Available from the Office of Statistics, Unesco, 7 Place de Fontenoy, 75700 Paris, France.

Alsed directory of specialists and research institutions. (Educational studies and documents, new series, 14). Composite: English/French with entries in Spanish followed by English translations. Paris, Unesco, 1974. 54 p., eight francs. (ISBN 92-3-001134-7).

This directory aims at providing the basis for an international Alsed (anthropology and language science in educational development) network of scholars, groups and agencies actively dealing with the socio-cultural and linguistics adaptation of the content and methodology of education. It contains 228 entries concerning some 141 specialists and 87 groups or institutions in 46 Member States.

Education in Asia: a bibliography/L'éducation en Asie, bibliographie. Bangkok, Regional Office for Education in Asia (P.O. Box 1425, Bangkok), 1972.

This list is a selection of titles from the holdings of the library of the Unesco Regional Office which supplements the bibliography of the Bulletin, Volume I, No. 1, 1966, devoted to a Review of education in the Asian Region, as well as Education in Asia: a bibliography published in the Bulletin, Volume IV, No. 2, March 1970.

Clofnam. I and II. Checklist of the fishes of the north-eastern Atlantic and of the Mediterranean/Catalogue des poissons de l'Atlantique du nord-est et de la Méditerranée, by J.C. Hureau and Th. Monod. Paris, Unesco, 1973. Vol. 1, 683 p., Vol. 2, 331 p. 200 francs for the two volumes which are not sold separately.

This catalogue was compiled by a panel of experts established under the auspices of Unesco to prepare a catalogue of fishes of the North-eastern Atlantic and the Mediterranean. The lack of any recent and detailed faunistic work covering all the fishes of the European seas brought out the need for a critical catalogue which would give definitive nomenclature and give, for each species, a set of data (synonymy, distribution, eggs, larval and young stages, autoliths, iconography) based on a bibliography of the essentials of the most important systematics source material. The first volume includes the detailed text of the checklist as well as general introductory material. The second volume provides a bibliography of more than 5,000 references, a large number of which have been checked against the original publications, and two alphabetical indexes, the first of which lists common names and the second scientific nomenclature and synonyms, at all taxonomic levels (family, genus, sub-genus and infraspecies taxa). The present catalogue includes the following numbers of taxa: 221 families, 645 genera, 1,248 species (including sub-species).

Hydrometry - Proceedings of the Koblenz Symposium, September 1970/Hydrométrie - Actes du colloque de Coblence, septembre 1970. Paris, Unesco, WMO, IASH, 1973. 2 Vols. 892 p. The two volumes: $38.50; £ 11; 120 F.

These reports are published in the series "Studies and Reports in Hydrology", the aim of which is to present the information collected, and the main findings of the studies carried out, during the International Hydrological Decade (1965-1974) and to provide information on research techniques.

These two volumes comprise the 87 papers which were read by specialists from 21 countries, on occasion, slightly condensed or slightly modified in form. Each one is preceded by a summary in English, French, Spanish and Russian. The records of the discussions on any particular paper follow immediately after the text of the paper. The scientific programme of the Symposium covered the following topics: water level measurement and flow gauging; measurement of the depth, temperature and quality of water; measurement of solid transports; special techniques, including the recording and remote transmission of measurements; evaluation of the measurements obtained.

The July-August 1974 issue of the Unesco Bulletin for Libraries (Vol. XXVIII, No. 4) contains the following articles:

VI. INTER-LIBRARY CO-OPERATION

1. Union catalogues

Task Group on the Canadian Union Catalogues/Groupe de travail sur le catalogue collectif canadien. A Task Group has been appointed by the National Librarian to study the scope, composition and services of the Canadian Union Catalogue and to investigate its rôle in co-operative library development. The Task Group will examine methods for developing a Canadian Union Catalogue in machine-readable form and will establish priorities in the implementation of a Canadian bibliographic data bank. Alternative methods of providing some of the services of the Canadian Union Catalogue will also be explored.

2. Lending services between libraries

There are many co-operating activities in the field of delivery services and of special inter-library loan arrangements operating in the various parts of the country, including in-person borrowing privileges for users of co-operating libraries.

Inter-University Transit System: Organized in 1967 by the Ontario Council of University Librarians to carry library materials between the fifteen provincially-assisted universities and the National Library. The system interconnects with PEPUQUILL, a similar inter-university delivery system for Quebec and makes it possible to deliver requests between Quebec and Ontario within 48 hours.

PEPUQUILL (Prêts entre bibliothèques des universités du Québec - Universities Inter-library Loans). This delivery service links the Bibliothèque nationale du Québec to the Quebec university libraries and to Ontario's Inter-University Transit System.

4. Other types of co-operation

Survey of Federal Government Libraries. At the request of the National Librarian, a survey was undertaken to gather facts that will be useful in planning a co-ordinated network of government libraries.

The first phase began in January 1972 with the mailing of a comprehensive questionnaire to nearly 200 libraries across Canada. The second phase is now underway with three special survey teams to examine various aspects of government library operations, namely collections, systems and methods, and organization and administration.

Canadian Task Group on Cataloguing Standards/Groupe de travail sur le catalogage. Following on the recommendations of the National Conference on Cataloguing Standards held at the national library in May 1970, a Canadian Task Group on Cataloguing Standards was set up to identify and study present deficiencies in the organizing and processing of Canadian material, and the cataloguing problems of Canadian libraries, and to make recommendations for improvements. The following report was published at the end of 1972 and the French edition is in preparation.

IV. INTERNATIONAL AND NATIONAL ACTIVITIES

General Information

A. INTERNATIONAL ACTIVITIES

International Council for Reprography

A joint meeting of international organizations who have an interest in reprography will be held on 19 and 20 September 1974 in Paris.

The meeting will have three objectives: (i) to scrutinize areas of common interest with the object of reaching mutual agreement on better ways and means to carry out their respective programmes more effectively; (ii) to ensure that their individual efforts are co-ordinated in time and effort wherever possible; (iii) to give consideration to the periodic holding of further assemblies to review current subjects of common interest. The working language of the meeting will be English.

Further information may be obtained from T. Hampshire, Secretary-General, International Council for Reprography, The Hatfield Polytechnic, Endymion Road, Hatfield, Herts, United Kingdom.

International Labour Office (ILO)

The International Occupational Safety and Health Information Centre (CIS), set up in 1960 by the ILO, systematically collects and analyses specialized documentation from all over the world, with the assistance of numerous national and international organizations.

The results of this abstracting service have hitherto been available in the form of descriptive notes and a bibliographical bulletin. Some 30,000 abstracts were disseminated between 1960 and 1973 in several languages. It is estimated that throughout the world some 30,000 or 40,000 documents are published each year dealing either directly or indirectly with occupational safety and health (ergonomics, occupational physiology and psychology or studies on working conditions, training and education, industrial toxicology and air and water pollution).

CIS makes a rigorous selection from the documents it receives and tries to retain, and describe in the CIS Bulletin, only those that seem to contribute to progress in these matters or which have to be mentioned in an international service.

The abstracting operations of the CIS not only extend to books and periodicals but also embrace laws and regulations, standards, directives, guides, descriptive hand books and folders, collective agreements, research reports, theses, reports of congresses and symposia, statistical data, films and other audio-visual materials, translations of documents, etc.

Since January 1974, the CIS has been using computers to provide, in French or English, a quicker and more complete service affording subscribers access to the CIS Bulletin, which periodically selects and describes, in digest form, the most important and useful documents in the field of occupational safety, medicine and health published anywhere in the world; to the cumulative indexes, by subject and author prepared each year by computer; to the full text of the documents mentioned, thanks to the CIS reprographic service (subject to the usual copyright regulations and practices); to the CIS Documentary Notes which are short articles on current subjects; and, upon request, to special computer-prepared bibliographies including, if desired, additional information drawn from the most significant and most recent documents on the subject of inquiry.

Fuller information may be obtained by writing to the International Occupational Safety and Health Information Centre (CIS), International Labour Office, CH-1211 Geneva 22, Switzerland.

A. INTERNATIONAL ACTIVITIES

Northern Libraries Colloquy

This international group of librarians, archivists and information specialists was established in June 1971 in response to a need for some kind of association between polar libraries.

The group represents libraries and institutions of all kinds either located in the north, that is the Arctic or Sub-Arctic, or which, like the Scott Polar Research Institute, are physically in milder latitudes but whose interests are wholly polar. The group now represents libraries in the United States of America (including Alaska), northern Canada, Finland, Norway, Denmark, Sweden, France, Federal Republic of Germany and the United Kingdom.

The group first met at the University of Edmonton, from 16 to 17 June 1971. Two practical results of this first colloquy were (1) the decision to publish a periodical news bulletin, Northern Libraries Bulletin, and (2) an agreement to publish, at a future date, a Directory of Northern Libraries, to be based on questionnaires completed for the use of the colloquy by the delegates attending.

The second Colloquy was held at the Cold Regions Research and Engineering Laboratory (CRREL), Hanover, New Hampshire, United States of America, from 31 May to 2 June 1972. The theme of the colloquy centred round the work of CRREL, an institution which conducts theoretical and engineering research on snow, ice and frozen ground and related subjects.

The third Colloquy met at the Scott Polar Research Institute, Cambridge, from 25 to 29 June 1973. One session was devoted entirely to problems of polar archives and manuscripts, and on the possibility of establishing an international inventory of polar manuscripts. The Polar bibliography was reviewed and discussed by a number of experts including the editors of Arctic bibliography, Antarctic bibliography, Cold regions bibliography and Recent polar literature. It was also agreed to publish a Guide to Northern Libraries, based on the questionnaires sent to delegates to the first and second colloquies. Finally it was agreed that the colloquies should continue to take place annually and should alternate between Europe and North America. The fourth Northern Libraries Colloquy will, therefore, be held in Montreal, Canada and the fifth in France.

Further details may be obtained from M. H.G.R. King, Librarian, Scott Polar Research Institute, Cambridge, CBE IER, United Kingdom.

A brief guide to sources of fiber and textile information, by Helen G. Sommar. Washington, Information Resources Press, 1973, 138 p., $9.95.

The contents of this guide has been limited to those sources which focus specifically on fibers and textiles or which contain a significant proportion of material pertaining to these subjects. Moreover, since this series is intended to cover only scientific and technical information, sources of business and commercial textile information have been excluded. The sources listed here include conventional bibliographies of books and journals and information directories which provide lists of books, primary journals, and abstract publication. The less conventional publications include directories of information centres, abstracting services, research laboratories, and associations through which data may be obtained, as well as journals that announce scientific and technical meetings which often are sources of unpublished information.

Gouvernements - Royaume de Belgique, Royaume de Danemark, République fédérale d'Allemagne, Irlande, République française, République italienne, Grand-Duché de Luxembourg, Royaume des Pays-Bas, Royaume-Uni - Etats Unis d'Amérique. Luxembourg, The Parliament, 1973.

After the publication of the previous lists of ministries and governments (PE 17.940, July 1967; second edition, PE 21.931, May 1969), the Terminology Office, because of changes of governments, had to restrict itself to publishing the newly formed cabinets from time to time as an appendix in its Terminological Information. In order to avoid delays in future and to supply subscribers again with as complete a list as possible, this list will from now on be issued in loose-leaf form, inserted in a file. This new edition includes Denmark, Ireland and the United Kingdom.

The new edition consists of nine parts; the tenth part, dealing with the United States of America, will be issued as soon as the new Government Organization Manual is available.

Bibliographical references are arranged as follows: a selection of those yearbooks and journals which regularly deal with political affairs in Europe or in the world at large as well as some relevant recently published books are listed at the end of this foreword; information relating to individual countries, especially titles of the respective official journals and gazettes (with dates) will however be found at the end of each part.

Available from The European Parliament, Terminology Office, Luxembourg.

Terminologie du règlement du Parlement européen/Terminologia del regolamento del parlamento europeo/Terminologie der Geschäftsordnung des europaïschen Parlaments/Terminology of the Rules of Procedure of the European Parliament/ Terminologie van het reglement van het Europese Parlement/Terminologi for Europa-Parlamentets Forretningsorden. Luxembourg, The Parliament, 1973. s.p.

The present glossary replaces the September 1968 edition of the "Terminology of the Rules of Procedure of the European Parliament" (Doc. PE 20.171), which has been corrected and supplemented on the basis of the latest edition of these Rules. It has also been extended to include the English and Danish versions.

The first part consists of a list of words and expressions in all six languages culled from the Rules of Procedure of the European Parliament and entered under 304 alphabetically classified French key-words. Each entry in the French column carries a reference to the Rule or Rules from which it has been taken.

The second part contains indexes (Danish, Dutch, English, German and Italian) of key-words cross-referenced to the French.

These lists will have the sub-title Newly Reported Titles (SALSSAH/NRT). They will be cumulated in (2) SALSSAH supplements, issued every four months, commencing with an issue for January to April 1974. As well as cumulating SALSSAH/NRT, these four-monthly issues will contain revisions of entries appearing in the loose-leaf edition plus entries received from 1968 to 1973 but not printed in that edition.

CAFRAD thesaurus of administrative information descriptor. Tangier, CAFRAD, 1973 180 p.

This draft thesaurus has been compiled by the African training and research centre in administration for development (CAFRAD), as an interdisciplinary authority file for terminology to be used in describing, communicating and documenting the subject matters associated with the information resources of CAFRAD's Documentation Centre. It will be circulated to African Institutes of Public Administration, and others interested in Administrative Information seeking their views and comments. 2,268 terms have been included in the thesaurus. The descriptors are alphabetically displayed. The display of the thesaurus incorporates in alphabetical order the more complex cross-reference scheme found in the more alphabetico-specific subject authority file, to fill a void and design a co-ordinate indexing retrieval system for administrative information. This preliminary edition is circulated in order to obtain comments, criticisms and suggestions for its revision so that it can ultimately be published in English, French and Arabic.

Russian studies, 1941-1958. A cumulation of the annual bibliographies from the Russian review. Edited by Thomas Schultheiss. Ann Arbor, The Pierian Press, 1972, 395 p.

During the first eight years of its existence, The Russian Review was issued semi-annually, with bibliographies being published in the Spring number. In 1949, the Review became a quarterly, and the bibliographies thenceforth appeared in the July issue of the journal. These listings included books and articles in monthly and quarterly journals published in the United States, Great Britain and Canada from 1941 through 1958. Beginning in 1953, the listing of pamphlets was begun as well. In general, short articles in monthlies and all articles in weeklies, semi-monthlies and fortnightlies were excluded, as were reprints and revised editions of books. The Russian Review's annual bibliographies were discontinued with the July 1959 issue (covering material that appeared in 1958) owing to the fact that a number of other bibliographies on Russia became available, notably the Indiana University bibliography. The present cumulation, therefore, partially fills the bibliographical gap for English language materials which exists between the American bibliography of Russian and East European studies and Philip Grierson's Books on Soviet Russia, 1917-1942.

The bibliographies cover materials on literature and the arts, history, Russian-American relations, foreign policy of the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Soviet politics, economics and social conditions. Except for medicine, natural and applied sciences were rarely included on a consistent basis.

Available from the Pierian Press, Ann Arbor, Michigan.
